

STATE EXPORT TRADE SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Value of Georgia Merchandise Shipped Jumps From $84,963,380 to $107,713,349 in 1925.

GEORGIA PASSES 3 STATES IN YEAR

Unmanufactured Cotton Leads List, With Naval Stores Products Next in Point of Value.

Washington, May 2.—(Special.)—By increasing its merchandise exports for 1925 nearly $23,000,000 over the totals for the previous year, Georgia climbed three places in the annual export race of the states of the union, and finished twelfth among the thirteen states of the union boasting an export exceeding $100,000,000, according to statistics released today by the department of commerce.

Comparative 1925 and 1924 total export values were $107,713,349 and $84,963,380, respectively. Georgia supplanted Minnesota, Washington and Wisconsin during the year, these three states having led the former during the export race of 1924.

Cotton Aids Georgia.
Unmanufactured cotton contributed to Georgia's excellent showing foreign shipments of this commodity for the year amounting to $82,521,010. Naval stores exports, with valuations of $15,266,008, finished in second place, with third honors falling to cotton manufactures, totaling $4,325,896 for the year under review. Exported items of lesser importance were wood and manufactures of, aggregating values of $1,632,877; cottonseed cake and meal, $908,379 and leaf tobacco, with a total of $778,427.

Total exports from the United States during 1925 amounted to $4,810,411,495 as compared with $4,408,151,936 during the previous year, an increase of over $320,000,000. Each of the first three quarters of the year showed increases over 1924, the first quarter registering exports valued at $171,500,000 more than the corresponding quarter of 1924; the second $100,000,000 more, and the third $102,000,000 more. The last quarter, however, declined in its exports to the tune of $62,000,000.

First Ten States.
The first 10 states in the order of their importance were New York, with exports valuations of $810,416,054; Texas, $758,605,032; Pennsylvania, $502,869,783; Louisiana, $265,891,941; California, $248,235,719; Michigan, $247,210,727; New Jersey, $231,039,500; Illinois, $224,569,234; Ohio, $162,597,653, and Virginia with exports for the year amounting to $148,745,613.

All of these states except Illinois and Virginia made export gains during 1925. New York's increase was the largest and amounted to nearly $79,000,000, and was followed in order by Michigan with over $69,000,000; Louisiana with $43,000,000; Texas with $21,500,000; Ohio with $19,000,000; California with $13,500,000; Pennsylvania with $9,500,000, and New Jersey with a gain over 1924 of slightly more than $7,000,000. The losses in export of Illinois and Virginia were approximately $14,750,000 and $1,500,000, respectively.

New York Is Second.
Compared with 1924, New York jumped from second place to the leadership as an exporting state, exchanging places with Texas. Louisiana advanced from seventh place to fourth, Michigan from eighth to sixth and Ohio from tenth to ninth, while Illinois dropped from fourth place to eighth, New Jersey from sixth to seventh, and Virginia from ninth to tenth place. Pennsylvania and California maintained their third and fifth places, respectively.

Getting Outdoors

Fresh air is a wonderful spring tonic. It is pleasant to take, and the best place to take it is outdoors, your own porch being an ideal spot.

The pleasure and benefit will be greatly enhanced if the porch is attractively furnished with rugs, easy chairs, a swing, table, lighting fixtures for the evening and other fixtures of comfort.

Thousands Parade To Protest Prohibition Law Modification

Youth of Atlanta Turns Out Many Thousands Strong to Oppose Dry Law Modification.

BIG MASS MEETING WINDS UP PARADE

Christian Endeavor Leaders, Ministers and Laymen Speak at Meeting at Baptist Tabernacle.

More than 10,000 Atlantans marched through the streets of the city Sunday afternoon as a protest to any move to modify the present prohibition laws of the nation. For the most part the parade was young men and women and children, members of the Christian Endeavor unions, Sunday schools and various church societies and classes, with a heavy sprinkling of older men and women.

The parade, a colorful and impressive affair, proceeded through principal downtown streets and ended at the Baptist Tabernacle where a mass meeting was held and prominent ministers and laymen spoke against any modification of dry laws.

Parade carried class slogans, banners, streamers, placards in automobiles and various inscriptions decrying efforts of so-called "wets" to modify the prohibition laws. Classes and groups marched together, with automobiles, large trucks and other vehicles carrying persons who joined in the spirit of the parade to protest against dry law modification. Groups of students of various educational institutions had prominent parts in the procession.

Route of Procession.
The parade formed at Peachtree and Cain streets and for the greater part of an hour passed down canyons between skyscrapers on Peachtree to Five Points. Here it turned down Marietta street to Forsyth, then halted for marchers to view the decorated monument of Henry W. Grady. Thence it proceeded down Forsyth to Luckie and to the Baptist Tabernacle. Bands furnished music and traffic was at a standstill for blocks as spectators lined the streets and cheered. The procession was headed by a squad of mounted policemen and was unlike any viewed in Atlanta since prior to passage of the well-known Georgia "bone dry" law.

The parade was staged at the instance of prominent ministers and churchmen following recent hearings in Washington to the effect that many Atlanta business men advocated modification of the prohibition law. "They Lied on Us in Washington" one banner read.

Police were followed by the Tech High band with students displaying banners reading "Hold Fast America." Next came a bevy of pretty girls from Agnes Scott, followed by the Baptist division, the largest in the parade, floats being entered by Woodward Avenue, Capitol Avenue, Inman Park, Gordon Street, Grant Park, Tabernacle and other Baptist churches. Others entering floats included Central, Peachtree Road, North Avenue and other Presbyterian churches and Deacons, Lakewood, East Point, St. Paul and many other Methodist churches. Baptist unions, Christian Endeavor unions, Epworth leagues, as well as the Tabernacle Agoda class and Bible school groups were represented.

Students in Parade.
Morgan Blake, of the Agoda class, depicted an old "toper" and his bottle in line. Another class entered a truck load of 50 or more children displaying a banner, "Safe With Prohibition." Georgia Tech and Emory students participated and many boys and girls sang "Onward Christian Soldiers." One group of boys clad in stripes displayed a pennant inscribed "Whiskey."

CICERO RAIDS REVEAL POWER OF GANGSTERS

Arsenals and Fortresses Equipped With Secret Passages, Trapdoors and Sliding Panels Found.

SCARFACE INVOLVED IN TRIPLE KILLING

Witness Declares That He Took Out Machine Gun From Hiding Place and Hastily Left Saloon.

BY EARL J. JOHNSON.

Chicago, May 2.—Securing gangland haunts for the machine gun slayers of Assistant County Prosecutor William H. McSwiggin and two of his beer-running companions, authorities have come with startling suddenness upon evidence which reveals the full power of organized crime in Chicago and the methods it employs to keep its business of vice and murder on a paying basis.

A part of the story comes from detectives and policemen whose raids upon the hiding places of gangsters have turned up arsenals and fortresses equipped with secret passages, trapdoors and sliding panels. Other points are supplied by witnesses who have been brought in by the dozen from the saloons, gambling houses and other resorts of wide-open Chicago since the McSwiggin-Doherty-Duffy murder last Tuesday night.

Elaborate Precautions.
Scarface Al Capone, the Sicilian overlord whose word is law in suburban Cicero, and who is believed to have been the man behind the machine gun which murdered three men, took elaborate precautions against interference with his business.

Police have now raided Capone's apartment and half a dozen of his saloons and vice resorts. At the apartment they found a small arsenal, hundreds of rounds of ammunition, machine gun equipment, revolvers and sawed-off shotguns.

At two of the saloons and one disorderly house they found the apparatus which enabled Capone and his subordinates to operate beyond the law and to resist with gun fire any attempts of Irish beer runners and saloonkeepers to cut in on the lucrative trade.

The McSwiggin Killing.
Information obtained from persons acquainted with the style of Scarface is that the machine gun was hidden in the apartment, and that the witness said he was drinking in a Capone saloon early on the evening of the killing, told of seeing Scarface with his brother, Ralph, and two other men talking excitedly at a nearby table.

"Presently Scarface got up and went to the wall, shoved back a panel and took out a machine gun and three 'envelopes' of ammunition," the witness said. "Then all four men left separately in a big hurry."

Two hours later the rapid fire machine gun was found in the hands of rival beer runners and a county prosecutor.

Scarface Al Capone has fled his old haunts, but federal authorities are holding his brother, Ralph.

Know Names of Gunmen.
Another important development is that police now know the names of three Chicago and Cicero gunmen who bought Thompson machine guns from Alex V. Koracek, the "valley" hardware dealer.

Declaring that he knew he would be "bumped off" for telling, Koracek, after confessing, asked to be kept under guard at the county jail.

"That gangland is still defiant in the face of the city, county and state investigations that have been launched following the McSwiggin murder, was seen in a warning telephoned to Corner Oscar Wolf shortly before Martin Garrity, another Irish beer runner, was murdered Saturday."

"Get used to some more work," the message said. "We're going to 'bump off' a man named Garrity." A few hours later police found Garrity's body in a ditch with a bullet hole through the head.

Miner Brings Body of Wife By Dog Team

Travels 200 Miles Over Mountain Passes and Obliterated Trails.

Nome, Alaska, May 2.—(AP)—Duncan L. McDonald, pioneer Alaskan miner, arrived here yesterday with the body of his wife after traveling 200 miles from Candle, Alaska, by dog team in six days over mountain passes and obliterated trails. The body is to be sent to Hillside, Mich., the home of the woman's relatives.

Mrs. McDonald died in Candle, a Seward peninsula, north of Nome. Her body became frozen during the long journey. Before marriage she was Miss Frances Bishop, and was graduated from the University of Michigan. She was born in North Dakota and had taught school.

Mrs. McDonald was postmistress at Candle two years. Her husband was one of the first stampedeers to the Dawson gold region. He has relatives in Montreal.

BRITISH STRIKE NEGOTIATIONS CALLED OFF BY GOVERNMENT WHEN WORKERS REFUSE OFFER

PRINTERS STRIKE AND DAILY MAIL FAILS TO APPEAR

London, May 3.—(AP)—One of the first effects of the strike is the non-appearance of The Daily Mail this (Monday) morning, owing to a strike of the printers, who took exception to the Mail's proposed editorial on the strike situation under the caption "For King and Country."

The editorial declared that "a general strike cannot be tolerated by any civilized government."

The Daily Mail informed the Associated Press that the printers took exception to the editorial and demanded that alterations be made by the editor, who refused to comply.

The printers, supported by the machine makers, electricians, gas fitters and packers, although not by the composers, process workers and telegraph operators, ceased work, and consequently, the paper was unable to appear.

GIRL SUES ROAD FOR PREVENTION OF HER MARRIAGE

Tampa, Fla., May 2.—Miss Mollie White asked $50,000 damages from the Atlantic Coast Line railroad in a suit filed here Saturday for injuries received in a train wreck which she charged blasted her hopes of an early marriage.

The wreck occurred last November near Bainbridge, Ga. The train, running behind schedule, was seeking to clear up time when it struck a trestle.

Miss White alleged in her suit in federal court.

"By reason of the said injuries," her petition said, "her chances of marriage were frustrated and bright prospects for marital and family strength and happiness blighted."

GAUDY PARASOLS MAKE GREAT HIT AT STYLE CENTER

Paris, May 2.—It has been a long time since the style centers of Paris found an idea so attractive and original as the crocheted parasol which has been seen on big racing days at Longchamp.

These parasols which are certain to be the rage of Deauville this summer came out too late for the Riviera and in Greece border designs or may take the cubist forms of triangles and sunbursts, but they must be brilliant.

SCHUMANN-HEINK TO AID DISABLED VETERANS OF U. S.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 2.—(AP)—Creation of a Schumann-Heink foundation of $750,000 for the disabled American veterans of the world war, founded by herself and sponsored by a committee of nationally prominent men and women, was announced tonight by John W. Mahan, national commander of the organization.

Schumann-Heink, who is the "mother" of the disabled veterans, will provide the funds to start the foundation by a benefit concert tour, which will open in Los Angeles May 26 and take her to 15 cities, closing at Boston June 30.

According to Commander Mahan, the balance of the fund of $750,000 will be raised from the public.

New Legal Stage Is Reached In 22-Year Fight for Liberty

UNIQUE PLEA IS PRESENTED BY BARBER

Washington, May 2.—(AP)—Vuko Perovich's 22-year battle, first for life then for liberty, is expected to reach a new legal stage soon which the circuit court of appeals of the eighth district rules on the government's appeal from the proceedings that set him free after sixteen years in prison.

Perovich, a Montenegrin subject, is now running the Golden Rule barber shop, Rochester, N. Y., while awaiting the outcome.

Convicted of the murder of Jacob Jaconi in Alaska in 1905, Perovich was sentenced to be hanged and the sentence affirmed by the supreme court. Refusal of presidential clemency was followed by habeas corpus proceedings until, after numerous stays, date of execution was fixed in 1908 only to have the appeal to the president renewed and commutation to life imprisonment granted.

This was in 1909 and for the next sixteen years Perovich was in confinement either at McNeil Island or the Leavenworth penitentiary, apparently acquiescing in the presidential action.

WHEELER CHARGES ATLANTA GREETING NATIONAL, STATE AMERICAN PEOPLE P. T. A. DELEGATES

Picture of Drunken Nation Whose Babies Cry for Moonshine Aroused Anger, He Declares.

Leading Women of Nation Gather for Thirtieth National Congress Here This Week.

Washington, May 2.—(AP)—Further echoes of the recent wet and dry eruption before a senate committee came today in a statement by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, declaring "the wet picture of a drunken nation, whose babies cry for moonshine," was a slander on a whole people that aroused "general anger."

"If this nation was one-third as wet as the modificationists claimed at these hearings," the statement said, "the foes of prohibition would not be forced to make grandstand plays before the primaries and elect congressmen and legislators who would re-amend the constitution. Because they are only a small minority, they have lost number of their number at each successive national election. At the primaries this year they will probably prove again that wet action causes a dry reaction."

Referring to the statement by Assistant Secretary Andrews to the committee as to the possible effect of illegal beer on enforcement, Mr. Wheeler said:

"Any phrase from an official which might be construed to approve the beer program was eagerly snatched up, even though such hypothetical approval was confined to non-intoxicating beer and was coupled with a statement that sale of beer would prove disastrous to enforcement."

The league counsel said "everybody knows" that the picture drawn by modificationists of the state in half of all American homes and a moonshine production annually of "from 25,000,000 to 250,000,000 gallons, with crime rampant and corruption dominant" was "just a wet caricature."

The destruction of the liquor group and their willingness to cling to any straw were never more fully revealed, he added. "Against better enforcement, the advocates of liquor had nothing to urge except the veiled threat that lurked under their citation of violations of the law. It was this very weakness that forced the nation to demand the adoption of the 18th amendment. It is unlikely that there will be a surrender today when this outlawed beverage has lost its entire position in police, has become smaller in number and has been driven into fearful and further hiding."

Mad Woman Kills Mother, Injures Son

Mrs. Martin Flood Then Stabs Self to Death With Knife.

Fayetteville, Ark., May 2.—(AP)—Becoming violently insane, Mrs. Martin Flood, 50, killed her mother, severely injured her son and then committed suicide at her home in West Fork, near here, today.

Mrs. Flood had recently been a patient at the state hospital for the insane at Little Rock.

Mrs. Fannie Brown, mother of the insane woman, and aged 78 years, was the first victim. Mrs. Flood beat her to death with a hammer, as the aged woman slept. She then attempted to kill her son, Jewett, 22, with a hammer, but the youth escaped and ran to a neighboring house for help.

Upon his return to his home, he found that Mrs. Flood had stabbed herself to death with a kitchen knife. William McKnight, 17, brother of Mrs. Brown and who lives in Shawnee, Okla., fell dead of shock when notified of the tragedy. Martin Flood, husband, was at Hugo, Okla., at the time, but is expected home tonight. He is a section foreman.

BRITAIN DEMANDS WORKERS RESCIND ORDER FOR STRIKE

Baldwin Calls for Acceptance of Coal Commission Report and Repudiation of "Overt Acts."

READY TO CONTINUE COAL SUBSIDY PLAN

Five Million Men Will Be Affected If Strike Order Called For Midnight Tonight Is Effective.

BY CHARLES M. MCANN.

London, May 3.—A government ultimatum, the terms of which were rejected by the workers after an all-night conference, has made the general strike which is to paralyze England at midnight Monday virtually inevitable.

Letters exchanged towards daybreak found the government and the trades union congress still apparently unilaterally opposed.

Recruiting offices opened Monday morning, inviting citizens to enlist to combat the strike of more than 5,000,000 workers, who propose to bring about cessation of work in all but the essential industries of the country. The union leaders, who have ordered the general strike in sympathy with the million miners who ceased work May 1, also mobilized their forces for what probably will be a British history.

The government issued a statement saying that if the workers would agree to accept the report of the royal coal commission as a basis for settlement of the miners' strike, the subsidy which was discontinued on May 1 might be continued temporarily. It also warned the labor union leaders that there could be no continuance of negotiations unless the unions immediately repudiated overt acts already committed and unconditionally withdrew instructions calling for a general strike at midnight.

Heads of the trades union congress met at 4:45 a. m., announcing they expected to be in session for a long time.

Send Baldwin Letter.
After some deliberation they sent a letter to Premier Baldwin expressing surprise and regret at the government's decision to terminate the discussions.

The Trades Union congress' letter to the premier, signed by Chairman Pugh, disclaimed knowledge of or responsibility for any overt acts, and promised that prompt action would be taken to prevent acts of indiscipline.

It declared that the council's efforts to effect an honorable settlement had been wrecked by the government's "unprecedented ultimatum."

"Hope of paving the way to full unfeigned negotiations has been abruptly terminated by the government," the letter said.

"In your communication, the first reason for termination of negotiations given by the government is that specific instructions have been sent directing the men to cease work."

"I am directed to remind you that it is not unusual for workers to cease work in advance under such circumstances and that the specific reason for such decision in this case is to secure for the workers the same rights as the employers; namely, to insist that negotiations be conducted in the atmosphere of strikes or lockouts."

The proposal which the labor union leaders had to consider was contained in a statement from the government to Chairman Pugh of the trades union congress.

O. O. F. FOUNDING IS OBSERVED HERE

More than 500 members of Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges of the Atlanta division celebrated the 107th anniversary of the founding of the order Sunday afternoon at the First Christian church.

Ritualistic work was in charge of T. T. Long, noble grand, and addresses were delivered by Paul Etheridge and the Rev. C. B. Stauter, First Christian pastor. Music was furnished by the Barnes lodge orchestra.

The program committee included H. C. Hall, Fletcher W. Lewis, Mrs. A. E. McArthur, Dr. R. B. Stoker and Walter S. McNeal. The order was founded in Baltimore in 1810 and the Atlanta division boasts 4,000 members. Sixteen subordinate lodges and twelve Rebekah lodges were represented at the celebration.

Commissioner James A. Perry, of the public service commission, who was scheduled to deliver the principal address at the ceremony was unable to be present on account of illness.

Mr. Etheridge and the Rev. Stauter briefly reviewed the growth and service of the order of Odd Fellows and its woman's auxiliary, the Rebekah organization, enlivened its founders and paid glowing tribute to leaders who have "carried on" during the years that order has grown "in service to humanity."

The affair was very impressive and in addition to representatives of various lodges in the Atlanta division, several score members of lodges outside this division attended.

Macon, Ga., May 2.—(AP)—Former Judge J. E. Pottle, of Milledgeville, arrived here tonight, en route to Atlanta, where he will present petition to the prison commission for executive clemency for J. D. Batchelor, sentenced to die in the electric chair on May 7.

In addition to the petition signed by 11 of the trial jurors and by Judge J. B. Park and Solicitor Joe B. Duke, Mr. Pottle stated that he had several letters from prominent persons who had become interested in the case, asking that Batchelor's life be spared. Mr. Pottle says he will appear before the prison commission early tomorrow.

Batchelor was convicted in Jones county superior court of the murder of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Fannie Anderson, in April of last year.

BABY BARONESS WORRIES CUSTOMS FORCE AT GOTHAM

New York, May 2.—Baroness Madeleine Van Boetzel was a five-hour mystery to customs and immigration officials who inspected the arrival of the Holland-America liner Veendam today. Although her name was on the passenger list, they could not find her formal manifest and customs declaration.

Although they searched the liner from deck to keel with the assistance of the pursed, William Barron, no sign of the titled Dutch lady could be found. Remembering the difficulty over the arrival of a British lady of title and turning some time ago, the officials became more and more insistent. But one of them stopped to entertain a pretty little two-year-old baby girl who played on the floor near his chair. He asked a nurse the child's name.

"Baroness Madeleine Van Boetzel," the nurse replied.

1,062 SHIPS OWNED BY U. S. ON APRIL 1

Washington, May 2.—(AP)—More than one-half of the gross commercial ship tonnage under the American flag was privately owned on April 1, it was disclosed today in figures for the first quarter of 1938. Thirty-one additional ships passed from government ownership into private hands during the quarter, their tonnage being 151,612.

These transfers brought the tonnage of the privately owned merchant marine up to 5,622,470, of which more than 92 per cent was in active operation on April 1. Between January 1 and April 1, the active fleet increased from 1,026 to 1,068 vessels, the 42 additional ships including five passenger vessels, 34 cargo craft and three tankers.

The government-owned fleet on April 1 was 1,062 ships, aggregating 5,306,215 tons, as compared to 1,118 ships totaling 5,506,670 tons on January 1.

20 OFFENSES LAID TO SHADE WALLEN AND BUSINESS MEN

Muskogee, Okla., May 2.—(AP)—Twenty offenses against the United States government are charged in the indictment returned in federal court here last Friday against Shade E. Wallen, superintendent of the five civilized tribes, and nine prominent business men of eastern Oklahoma, government officials revealed today.

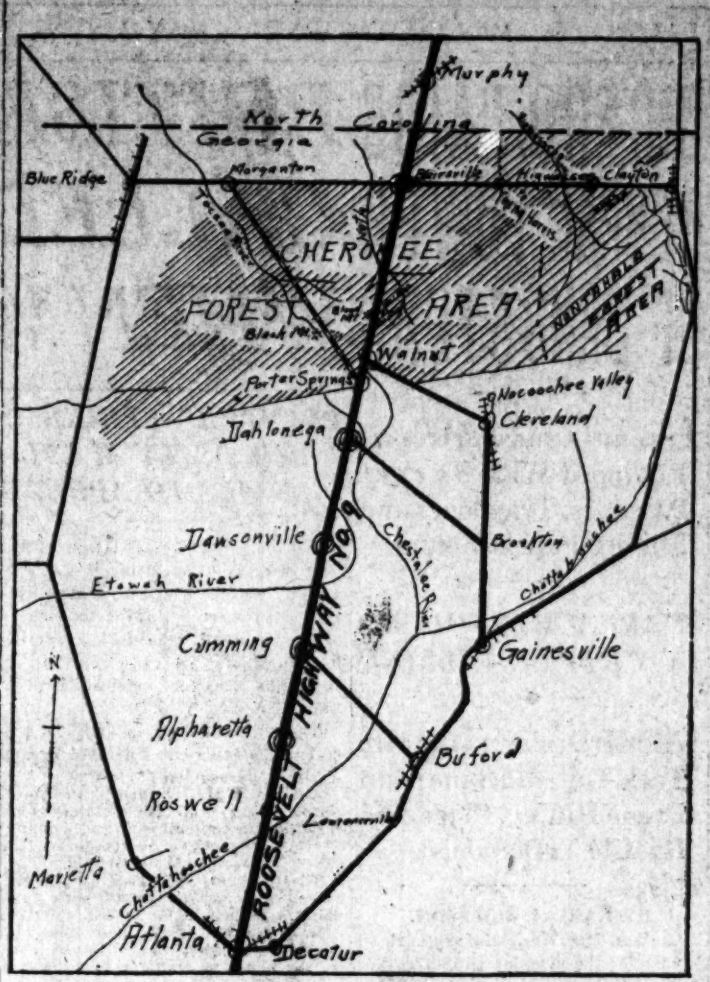

The indictment was made public following announcement that 11 of those indicted had been arrested and had posted bonds of $5,000 each with United States commissioners at Tulsa and Vinita.

Four specific "overt acts" charge that Wallen knowingly had an interest and concern in a trade with an Indian of the five tribes, involving sale by the Indian of his allotment to the Vinita Land company, in which the 10 indicted men are alleged to be associated.

AKRON TROLLEY MEN ARE NOW ON STRIKE

Akron, Ohio, May 2.—(Inter-urban service on the Northern Ohio Power & Light company and city service in Canton and Massillon was at a standstill tonight because of a strike of union carmen which became effective early today. Cars manned by employees loyal to the company were operated as usual in Akron today but were withdrawn tonight. Approximately 1,000 trainmen are affected.

Two Famous Indian Forest Areas Reached by Highway

Above is shown the Roosevelt highway, which traverses six north Georgia counties and leads to the vast Cherokee and Nantahala forest areas. The section is not penetrated by railroads. A government road across the Cherokee forest from Porter Springs to Morganton, now nearing completion, is also shown.

Pointing out that completion of Roosevelt boulevard has placed the beautiful forest areas of north Georgia practically at Atlanta's front door, Henry F. Whitner, of Porter Springs, Ga., in a letter to The Constitution, urges that citizens of this city assume leadership in organizing an association for protection of these forests. It is also interesting to note that in a sketch enclosed by Mr. Whitner he shows a new government road, now nearing completion, which leaves Roosevelt highway at Porter Springs and crosses the heart of the scenic Cherokee forest area.

Mr. Whitner's letter follows: "Dear Sir: Your articles on forestry were read with much interest. The opening up of the six undeveloped counties of the north Georgia region by the highway through the only group of communities in the state, the Porter Springs, Ga., and the Nantahala, N.C., service places Atlanta and her leaders in the position of protectors of the unusual resources of this forest area at Atlanta's very gate.

Atlanta being the large city in this area, the rest of this section is looking and waiting for the leadership of Atlanta's organizations. While many trees are being planted along the Roosevelt highway near Atlanta, which when grown will be of great beauty, hundreds are being needlessly destroyed further north which are already grown and there is no possibility of replacing them during our lifetime when they have once been destroyed.

The Roosevelt highway being Atlanta's entrance to the Cherokee and Nantahala forest area, the attitude towards the preserving of the present forest is an important problem. It will largely influence attention given other entrances to this section and The Constitution would do a great service to the whole state of Georgia in taking steps to protect the forest along this highway in an active way by pushing the completion of some association for the protection of trees along all highways in the state.

The enclosed sketch shows the general location of Roosevelt highway from Atlanta to the forest area.

Porter Springs, April 28. Yours truly, HENRY F. WHITNER.

Kennesaw Mountain Park Approval Is Seen by Lee

Belief that the Kennesaw mountain national military memorial park bill will be enacted before this session of congress ends was expressed by Congressman Gordon Lee in a telegram to The Constitution.

The bill has passed the senate and is in the hands of a subcommittee of the military affairs committee of the house.

President Coolidge has already signified his cheerful willingness to sign the bill and Secretary of War Davis will undoubtedly appoint a competent commission to survey and report limits for the park, Congressman Lee said.

Definite action upon the favorable report of the commission will be sought at the next session and doubtless be had, he said.

This would be the first joint memorial to the military participants in a battle of the war between the states authorized and constructed by the general government. It would constitute a complete union of descendants of both Federals and Confederates in honoring their heroes and martyrs, and answer the "die-hard" of both sections who would keep open the issues of the war, Mr. Lee further says.

Wherever the project has been discussed it has met with cordial endorsement. The arguments for the creation of the unusual memorial, presented fully to members of congress by Dr. Sam Small, chairman of the Washington end of its promotion, have been accepted as most persuasive. They will be laid also before the Confederate veterans and the Grand Army of the Republic for endorsement when they hold their reunions this year.

See Old Kennesaw Now. Citizens of Marietta have adopted the park project as a municipal obligation and will back it to the limit. They especially urge all who wish to see the mountain in its native majesty and beauty to do so now, before the government takes it over for park development.

It was an "Ohio Yankee," as he calls it, that Atlanta business man, who saw the park in his mind's eye and now the park in his mind's eye and now the park in his mind's eye.

PROBE IS ORDERED OF ORIGIN OF FIRE IN NEGRO SECTION

Belief that incendiarism was responsible for flames which gutted a negro church and three small houses at West Fair and Butler streets Saturday night, caused Captain A. J. Holcomb, head of the city plainclothes squad, to order a thorough probe.

Detectives B. F. Gillespie and J. J. Cowan were assigned to investigate the fire after reports reached headquarters that flames started from an explosion in one of the dwellings. The loss is estimated at about $10,000.

Buildings burned were the Flipper temple, A. M. E. church, and houses at 228 and 214 West Fair and 70 Kennesaw place.

Many Industries Affected By General Strike Order

(By Associated Press.)

Some 5,000,000 British workers will be idle after midnight Monday if the general strike called in sympathy with the strike of 1,000,000 coal miners in Great Britain is not averted.

The shipping industry employs the largest number of union members of all industries, except coal mining, which will be affected by the general strike. According to union records, 84,000 unionists are employed as shipbuilders and ship repairers in Great Britain and northern Ireland; 51,000 seamen will be called out and about 55,000 dock and waterfront workers.

Other industries which will be affected by the strike include the iron and steel trades, employing 64,000 unionists; the tinplate and steel sheet trades, with 61,000 union workers; the railways and the pig iron industry, employing 17,000; iron and steel mining, with 7,000 unionists and the brick trade, numbering 9,000 union workers.

While this will be Great Britain's first general strike, there have been many in Europe, some necessitating forcible suppression and others governmental crises. There have been general strikes in Cuba and Argentina, and one unsuccessful attempt was made to call a general strike in the United States.

BRITISH STRIKE NEGOTIATIONS FAIL

Congress committee, which read as follows:

"His majesty's government believes there can be no solution of the difficulties in the coal industry both practical and honorable to all concerned except by sincere acceptance of the report of the royal coal commission. In the expression 'acceptance of the report' is included both reorganization of the industry, which should be put in hand immediately, and the result of the reorganization being attained, such interim adjustment of wages and hours as will make it economically possible to carry on the industry in the meantime.

"If the miners or the trades union congress on their behalf were prepared to say plainly that they accept the foregoing proposal, the government would have been ready to resume negotiations and to continue the subsidy for a fortnight.

Overt Acts Charged. "But, since the discussions which have taken place between his majesty's ministers and the representatives of the trades union committee, it has come to the knowledge of the government not only that specific instructions have been sent to the representatives of the executives of the trades union congress—excluding their members in the vital industries in the services of the country to carry out a general strike next Tuesday, but that overt acts already have taken place including gross interference with the freedom of the press.

Such action involves a challenge to the constitutional rights and freedom of the nation. His majesty's government, therefore, before it can resume negotiations, must require from the trades union committee both repudiation of the actions referred to that already have taken place and immediate, unconditional withdrawal of instructions for a general strike.

Nation Prepares for War. Meanwhile, the nation girded itself for industrial war. Facing the likelihood of being without transportation, newspapers, communication and with only sufficient power to maintain life in private homes, Britishers were preparing to take a hand in the situation.

The National Citizens' union has flooded the mail with circulars addressed indiscriminately urging citizens to enroll in a "civil defense corps" for the maintenance of food, necessary supplies, and order.

Householders were asked to check off on the enclosed form the duty, such as chauffeur, special constable, or cook, for which he or she enlisted when the wheels of industry came to a standstill Tuesday morning. The electric power engineers' union wrote to Premier Baldwin, transmitting a resolution pledging the support of its members to maintain electric power for essential public services. The union asked that care be taken by the government to see that this power was not furnished to non-essential industrial works engaged in non-essential undertakings.

It was in this spirit that England prepared for the great general strike.

England Must Be Ready. Sir William Johnson-Evans, a member of the House of Commons, stated through his deputy chief civil commissioner saying:

"Although discussions still are proceeding in view of the action of the trades union congress the country must be prepared for a general strike in many industries and public services Monday midnight.

"His majesty's government has taken all steps to maintain the supply of food, fuel, light and power, with protection for all those engaged in these services, and for preservation of law and order.

"Recruiting stations for volunteers will be opened Monday and loyal citizens will be called upon to assist."

70 PERSONS BAPTIZED BY DR. W. H. HOUGHTON

Seventy persons converted during the recent old-fashioned revival were baptized by the Rev. W. H. Houghton, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, Sunday. In the morning 30 boys and girls were baptized and at night men and boys over 14 years old, 40 in number were immersed in accordance with church tenets.

Since last Wednesday Dr. Houghton has baptized 110 persons.

In his morning sermon Sunday, he emphasized problems facing the youth of America, declaring they had more obstacles confronting them than in days gone by. He said trained teachers are just as necessary for Bible schools as teachers in public schools and stressed the necessity for home training by parents.

All this week a training school for Christian workers will be held at the Tabernacle.

Sunday night the pastor spoke on "The Gospel in Song," and said "music is the master key in life."

"The power of song was given in order that men might praise God," he said. "The gospel song is a song of comfort to those troubled and afflicted and also a song of courage. Show me a single church that needs action. The first song mentioned in the Bible tells of the song of redemption sung by the children of Israel after their deliverance from the Egyptians."

"The last song of the Bible is the song of redemption and from it comes the text," Dr. Houghton declared.

Parade marshals were Claude Bennett, chief, president of the Atlanta Epworth league; Walter Thomas, Francis Plumb, Bob McFarland, B. O. Houghton, D. B. Stephens, the Rev. Marvin Williams and Thomas Moyer. The official song was "Hold Fast, America," written by Miss Ida Dean CLOPTON, of Gainesville.

Other slogans included "Booze Is Dead"; "The Youth of Today Is Not Going to the Devil"; "American Youth Is Not Drunk"; "Joke at Prohibition's Expense"; "Dip Your Feet in Buttermilk, No Booze," and "The Volstead Act Will Stand."

Several participants were dressed to represent Satan and one group of boys were seen chasing him displaying a banner, "We're Got Him on the Run."

Resolution Upheld. At the mass meeting at the Tabernacle, presided over by Thomas A. Moyer, president of the Georgia Christian Endeavor union, addresses were delivered by the Rev. Will Houghton, a Baptist minister, Dupree Jordan, of Oglethorpe university; Miss Catherine Graeber, of Agnes Scott; John L. Jenkins, of Emory, and Leslie K. Patton, of Georgia Tech.

HANCOCK FARMER LOSES BOTH LEGS

Sparta, Ga., May 2.—(AP)—William Dougherty, 23, son of Walter T. Dougherty, farmer of Hancock county, was found near the tracks of the Georgia railroad early today with both feet crushed.

The accident was supposed to have happened about last midnight but Dougherty was unable to rouse any one with his cries for help until 8 o'clock this morning. He was taken to the office of a local physician, where both of his feet were amputated. This afternoon he was removed to a hospital in Sandersville and both legs were amputated above the knees. His condition is critical.

Dougherty does not remember how the accident happened, but it is supposed he went to sleep on the railroad tracks below the Granite Hill station and was hit by a freight train which passed along about midnight.

Action on French Debt Will Start In House Today

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, May 2.—With the signing during the past few days of debt agreements with France and Jugoslavia the major work of the American debt funding commission, created under act of congress in February, 1922, has been brought to a close, and it is now up to the congress of the United States to act on the remaining settlements.

During the present session of congress debt records with Italy, Belgium and four other nations have been approved. Those of five other countries had been adopted previously, while Austria was granted a 20-year moratorium. The Greek debt remains unsettled with little hope, it is reported, of reaching an understanding at any time in the near future; Russia and Armenia are considered as hopeless; Nicaragua is making payments from time to time on its small indebtedness to the United States, while Liberia's small obligation also may be taken care of soon.

French Settlement.

Chief interest now centers in conclusion of the settlement with France, this being the only sizeable obligation of the more than $10,000,000,000 owed to the United States on war-time loans.

Representative Burton, republican of Ohio, a member of the debt funding commission, is prepared to introduce in the house tomorrow, a bill providing for acceptance of the settlement. This will be referred to the ways and means committee, of which Representative Crisp, democrat of Georgia, a member of the debt commission, is a member. Representative Green, republican of Iowa, chairman, probably will call his committee together the latter part of the week to begin consideration of the measure with the prospect that it may be reported to the house by the time pending farm legislation is out of the way. The Jugoslavia agreement may be reported at the same time. It is not believed that there will be any extended debate or serious opposition in the house to the French debt pact.

Opposition in Senate.

More serious opposition is threatened in the senate where Senators Reed, democrat of Missouri; Borah, of Idaho, republican; Harrison, democrat of Mississippi, and several others are whetting their knives. They have indicated their intention of embarrassing and delaying action in the finance committee by demanding that a thorough investigation be made by that committee of all the acts and actions of the debt funding commission in arriving at its conclusion and in determining what is France's "capacity to pay," which some of them assert has been underestimated. By such dilatory tactics opponents of the agreement which was signed at the treasury last Thursday by Secretary Mellon and Ambassador Borener, believe that they may be able to stave off approval, or at least postpone it until next December when congress meets again.

LARGE LUMBER PLANT REBUILDS AT ARYLE

Waycross, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—The saw mill and kilns of the Garland Lumber company, destroyed by fire last fall, are being rebuilt at Aryle, in Clinch county, it is reported here. It is one of the largest pine mills in this immediate section.

It was believed after the mill was burned that the supply of lumber in the Aryle section would not justify rebuilding the plant, but a survey of the timber lands revealed a large supply of uncut pine and prompted the rebuilding of the mill.

Negro Lives Though Shot Through Head

Birmingham, Ala., May 2.—(AP)—Sundown and police officials are baffled by the condition of Casey Ellison, negro, who although shot through the brain, is apparently rational, able to eat, smoke, drink and talk with visitors without any apparent trace of injury.

Ellison was shot through the head while on his way home. When found he was unconscious, but later at the hospital he was able to walk from the operating room to his ward.

The bullet, according to the hospital surgeon, penetrated the skull above the left ear and came out over the right. X-ray pictures, they declared, revealed that the bullet had passed through the brain. The negro said he suffered no pain from his wound. Although apparently well, medical authorities declare his death is momentarily expected.

Parker Presents Plan for Merger Of U.S. Railroads

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, May 2.—Provision for voluntary consolidation of railroads subject to the approval of the interstate commerce commission's made in a bill prepared by Representative Parker, republican of New York, chairman of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

Under the terms of the bill, the interstate commerce commission would not be required to prepare a plan for consolidation of railroads but at the end of seven years, the commission would be required to report to congress as to the progress made and submit its recommendations as to further proceedings.

Under the consolidation bill of Senator Cummins, republican of Iowa, the commission would be required to prepare a plan at the end of five years to which consolidations thereafter would have to conform. The Cummins bill also provides for recapture of excess earnings. These provisions have been omitted from the Parker bill.

It is hereby declared to be the policy of congress, the Parker bill provides, "in order that an adequate and efficient transportation service may be maintained in the United States and necessary work be carried on, to authorize and encourage the unification, through any method specified in sections 203, 204, 205 of this title, of the property of carriers into a number of strong and efficient and well-balanced systems which will as far as practicable, maintain the existing routes and channels of trade and commerce and preserve and enhance themselves the advantages of effective competition in service so that the properties of the carriers of each system shall ultimately be managed and operated and owned or controlled by a single corporation, economy be promoted, unnecessary duplications and wasteful competition eliminated, better service afforded and the traffic moved at the lowest rates compatible with the maintenance of adequate and efficient transportation service."

MOTHER AND INFANT BURNED TO DEATH NEAR SUMMERVILLE

Summersville, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—The news of the horrible death of a mother and her three-week-old baby has reached here from Berryton, four miles south of Summersville.

According to reports, the woman, Loney Walker, a negro, was subject to attacks of vertigo, and while sitting before an open grate Wednesday afternoon holding the infant, she was seized with one of the attacks, dropped the child almost directly under the fire in the grate, fell out of the chair she was sitting in, her clothing igniting from the fire and burning from her body as she lay unconscious on the hearth by the side of her burning child.

Regaining consciousness a few moments later the woman, not thinking of her baby, lay across the bed, which was set afire by her burning clothes. Her screams caused other children to go to her rescue and the alarm was given. Neighbors found the woman horribly burned, the bed in flames and the baby missing. The bed was thrown out of the house and the fire was extinguished, but it was some time before the body of the child was found under the grate, where it had literally roasted to death.

GOVERNOR TO SPEAK TO MOLENA SCHOOL

Molena, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—The Molena high school commencement exercises will be held May 23-26. Governor Clifford Walker will deliver the literary address to the graduating class on the evening of May 26. Dr. W. G. Hargis, of Emory university, will preach the commencement sermon on Sunday morning, May 23 at 11 o'clock at the First Baptist church here.

The school has been placed on the Georgia accredited list and has been recognized as a standard school by the state and a great deal of enthusiasm and interest in education is being evidenced by the people of the town and community.

The new $25,000 school building is going up rapidly but will not be complete before the date of the commencement. Plans for a big opening and dedication are being started for next fall when the new building will be occupied by the school.

WILKINS DECIDES TO USE ALASKAN

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 2.—The single-engine Fokker monoplane Alaskan, tried and found adequate in three trips across the Endicotts from here to Barrow, will be used for Captain George H. Wilkins' first trip to the unexplored ice fields of the Polar sea. This decision was arrived at today in a conference between Captain Wilkins and Major Thomas G. Lanphier, his second in command. Pilot Ben Ellison, who will pilot the plane over the Arctic ocean for Captain Wilkins, gave his hearty approval of the plan.

"Realizing the difficulties of laying down an adequate gasoline supply for the three-engine Endicotts in Barrow immediately," Captain Wilkins stated to The Constitution and The North American Newspaper Alliance said, "I propose to leave Fairbanks with the Alaskan and one pilot and fly it to Barrow. Ellison and I have tried the Alaskan and know what it will do. We will then make one trip over the sea ice as soon as the weather permits. We will have enough gasoline for 12 hours over the ice and the return to Fairbanks."

"Meanwhile I will leave the Endicotts here. Further plans it is uncertain until after the ice trip."

"Charles Brewer, Dr. A. W. Newhall, the medical missionary at Barrow, the natives are convinced that land exists somewhere in the ice pack. The white flocks begin heading into the ice in early spring and return in the fall. Birds as the same flight of five or six hours out toward the pole of relative inaccessibility should prove conclusively whether land exists in the unexplored ice field. The Alaskan, flying light, can do 100 miles an hour or better."

In an earlier dispatch Captain Wilkins announced his determination to leave for Barrow as the Alaskan was overhauled—probably in three or four days.

Coolidge, Lowden Hopes May Lean On Farm Relief

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, May 2.—Many political fortunes are at stake in the struggle over farm relief, which begins formally in congress this week.

There are numerous complications bearing on the approaching congressional elections, but behind the scenes it is a fight between President Coolidge and Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, which likely will have considerable bearing on the presidential nomination two years hence.

Roughly, the division is this: Coolidge stands for the Tinchin bill, which would set up a $100,000,000 revolving fund which would be loaned on liberal terms to cooperative marketing associations. Originally the president was not inclined to go even this far, but it recently seemed necessary to put forward a compromise measure as the most practical way of heading off the more radical Haugen bill. Secretary of Agriculture Jardine prepared the administration bill and Representative Tinchin, of Kansas, who is not running for reelection, agreed to sponsor it. Expectation here is that Tinchin would be given a place on the farmers' marketing commission which would administer the loan fund.

Lowden stands for the Haugen bill, which would create a federal farm board to administer a complicated mechanism by which the government would gather up the exportable surplus of basic crops so that it would not depress prices in the domestic market.

SCABARD AND BLADE ELECTS BUSH COLONEL

Raton Rouge, La., May 2.—(AP)—Ralph and Eugene were spectators for the fifth corps area of the reserve officers training corps, was the unanimous choice of Scabard and Blade, national military fraternity, as colonel of the organization for the coming year at the closing sessions of the convention here.

The convention elected H. Raymond Tremaine, inspector of the fifth corps area as lieutenant colonel, and named Major H. C. Mahin as executive officer.

Ohio State university, at Columbus, was chosen as the convention city for 1927.

The delegates before adjournment, passed resolutions petitioning the war department to consider no reductions in the R. O. T. C. training and summer military camps appropriations.

Principle Simple.

The principle is quite simple but the mechanism necessary to operate it is extremely complicated, involving an "equalization fee" to be paid into a fund by the farmer when he sells his commodity and which is to be used to defray any losses incurred through the buying up of the surplus crops, and the failure to resell abroad. This equalization fee is not to be charged for two years, the cornering of the surplus to be financed during that period by the $375,000,000 revolving fund provided by this provision is denounced by opponents as a farmers' subsidy and it is contended that the government stands to lose this huge sum.

The Haugen bill has gained a tremendous following in congress because it is more generous toward the farmer.

Health Slipping Away?

WATCH your kidneys! Sluggish kidneys fail to rid the blood of impurities, and permit slow poisoning. That is why so many folks suffer constant backache, stiff, achy joints, headaches, dizziness, and disturbing bladder irregularities.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are recommended by those who speak from experience. Ask your neighbor!

W. C. KING, 279 Luckie St., says: "I suffered with dull, throbbing pains in the small of my back and it felt as though someone were pounding my kidneys. When I stooped, I couldn't straighten up. My kidneys acted too freely and it was necessary to pass the secretions every few minutes. I purchased Doan's Pills at Sharp's Drug Store and after using them, they gave me relief that has lasted."

Youthful Heir To Russell MOTHER SUES TO ESTABLISH BIRTHRIGHT OF SON Title Again in Limelight

London, May 2.—A smiling, innocent 44-year-old boy is soon to take the center of the stage again as the star in the last act of a legal tragedy that has kept British society gossiping for over four years.

Chubby, curly-headed Geoffrey Russell is the star.

Nominally he is the only son of the Earl, John Russell, and his wife, the Hon. Christabel Russell, therefore second heir to his paternal grandfather's barony of Amphil, and the seat in the house of lords that goes with it.

But a bitterly fought divorce suit, which cost $200,000 in the two years during which John Russell tried unsuccessfully to prove that his wife had been unfaithful, has left open the legal question of the child's legitimacy.

Russell denied paternity of the child, and declared that circumstances in his married life had made the birth of a child at that time impossible.

Geoffrey was born in November, 1921, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell became estranged.

July 1922, Russell sued for divorce. After nine days of mutual recrimination by the parties concerned, a jury found that Mrs. Russell had been unfaithful to her husband with the two respondents, Russell named in his charge of misconduct, but disagreed regarding Mrs. Russell's alleged misconduct with a "man unknown."

In March, 1923, the case was retried. The jury, after another long trial, found misconduct proved with an unknown man, and a divorce was granted to Russell.

Mrs. Russell appealed unsuccessfully to the court of appeal. Mother-er than the administration bill. Pressure has become very strong on senators to prepare a plan for farmer constituencies. Some of the big farm organizations have their most skillful lobbyists at work and the Haugen bill is gaining recruits daily.

There is a good deal of cynicism here about it and the opposition makes no secret of the fact that it regards the measure as a huge swindling deal that is about to be saddled on the public treasury. Supporters of the bill declare it offers the only way of rescuing the farmer from his troubles.

Lowden has been the prime mover in this type of remedy. He has worked up powerful support for it from agricultural organizations. It is contended that if it is successful in putting this bill through, he will become a formidable contender for the republican presidential nomination.

Coolidge would veto the measure should it ever reach him in the opinion of practically everyone in congress. That is one reason why the bill is so popular at the capitol. Congressmen and senators who might hesitate to take individual responsibility for putting this law on the books are entirely willing to angle for votes from the farmers, and content themselves with the end Coolidge will step in and veto it. If the measure gets through, it will be because of this insincere support.

The measure probably will pass the house. Its fate in the senate is doubtful. Two-thirds of the senators are got up for reelection and the white house may be able to stop the bill with their aid. The effort of the administration to blocking the bill in the senate will produce a grim struggle of the kind which the senate has not seen in years because the political danger in a veto is acutely realized.

The Haugen bill comes up in the house Tuesday and the remainder of the week will be given over to political talk for the benefit of the voters back home. Then the fight over amendments will begin. The Tinchin bill is to be offered as an amendment and is expected to be voted down through a combination of democrats and hostile republicans. The Curtis-awell bill, even milder than Tinchin's, will be voted down in all probability. Then the administration will seek to load the Haugen bill down with fatal amendments. The same fight will be repeated in the senate. So that adjournment of congress appears to be some weeks off.

NATIONS REFUSE PRIVATE TREATY

(Copyright, 1923, by The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

London, May 2.—Following the disclosure of a plan for a tripartite pact between Russia, Germany and Lithuania exclusively by The Tribune Press Service a few days ago, it is now learned that Poland, Estonia, Latvia and Finland, have delivered a joint ultimatum to Russia refusing to consider the Russian offer of separate treaties and demanding a joint treaty which may be registered with the League of Nations.

The surprise in this disclosure is the alliance of Finland with the other Baltic states. Finland heretofore has preserved a sturdy independence, always refusing to join any Baltic confederation and the reason for its change of policy is said to be due to the defection of Germany with whom it formerly was in very close relations.

When Russia recently began putting pressure on Finland to enter the circle of its satellites it appealed to Germany and was informed that in no circumstances could Germany interfere in Finland's favor in event of trouble with Moscow. Finland, thus thrown over by Germany, had to act quickly and intimated to the Baltic states and Poland that it would enter their federation.

Negotiations now are going on for drawing up a regular Baltic pact in which Poland is included, and which, therefore, is linked up through Poland with Rumania for mutual protection. Lithuania on account of its pact with Germany and Russia will be excluded.

28 ARE MARRIED IN NEW INDIANA GRETN GREEN

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Valparaiso, Ind., May 2.—Twenty-eight persons from Chicago and vicinity arrived here yesterday and left as fourteen, all having been married across the street from the courthouse where sits Justice of the Peace Bornholt. One of the features of the day was the double elopement and marriage of two Melrose Park girls to two Oak Park boys, each of the couples had just about reached the marriageable age.

Gretna Green has become the new place of the bordering states because of the service rendered by the county clerk, R. C. Jones and Justice Bornholt. Both of the gentlemen are so willing to oblige Cupid's followers that they will arise from their beds at any hour of the night, the one issue the license, the other tie the knot.

Three Women In Gubernatorial Race in Texas

Austin, Texas, May 2.—(AP)—It is open season in Texas for women candidates for governor. With the July primaries still in the distance, three women, one an avowed "wet," have cast their bonnets into the ring.

Two men also have announced their candidacies.

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson started the fashion for the women by getting elected two years ago, and now is preparing to try it again. Mrs. Edith Williams, of Dallas, the first woman member of the legislature, announced some time ago that she aspires to be at least the second woman governor.

The other woman candidate, Mrs. W. K. Johnson, of San Antonio, entered the field yesterday when she declared for better rural schools and against prohibition. The latter "experiment," she holds, "is a flat failure."

James H. Ferguson, impeached former governor and husband of the incumbent, has publicly recommended Mrs. Williams as the next best choice for the people of Texas if they do not re-elect his wife.

New York.—"I didn't mind, your honor, when she called me all kinds of names. I didn't ever care when she cut down my clothes-line and broke my mail box, but when she lived live rats to my front door, she reached the limit in insults." Following this tirade, Mrs. Yuskovitch, Magistrate Oberwager fined Mrs. Lena Hrychyn $25.

A Great Store Is Opening In Atlanta On Wednesday

Measured by size, the new store of Stephen Philibosian, Inc., opening on Wednesday, May 5th, is one of the largest and most completely stocked of its kind in the South.

But in business, as among men and women, there is a quality of greatness not to be measured in dimensions. To you who purchase for your home, the policy behind the store which asks for your patronage is of more vital importance than a torrent of adjectives.

When you visit the new Philibosian Store on the opening day, you will readily see, of course, for yourself the beauty of its arrangements, the variety and completeness of its stocks of furniture, oriental and domestic rugs, draperies. But what will influence you to visit it again and again thereafter will be the experience of your first purchase here.

And there is no mystery as to how this store can give such values and the extra measure of service that goes with each purchase. It sells for cash, cuts down the overhead, eliminates losses through bad accounts, and passes these savings on to its patrons in year-around fair prices.

The store will remain open until ten in the evening on Wednesday to welcome its host of friends.

Peachtree Company Having Busy Season at This Time

The spring season opened up with a rush with the Southern Bearing and Parts company of 449 Peachtree street, according to R. M. Schorr, the president and general manager, and they are having busy times in all cities where they have salesrooms.

This firm is having an annual good season in replacement parts of which they carry a big stock of parts for any make car at all times. Their big salesrooms in Atlanta, Charlotte, Winston-Salem and Birmingham loaded up with every kind of a part that might wear out or break on an automobile and every garage man in the south knows that he can duplicate any needed part by getting in touch with the nearest Southern Bearing and Parts salesroom.

M. E. Turner, of this organization, has been promoted to be salesmanager and is a very busy man these days. This firm has just recently added the Rotter boring bar, a new machine to bore out cylinders, and is a machine that should be included in the equipment of every modern up-to-date garage.

Here is what they say about this new machine:

"The Rotter boring bar does the work more accurately than any other known device, prevents delays as work can be done with this tool in a fraction of the time used by any other machine. On the market, makes the motor more snappy, has more power and breaks in much faster than other motors where grinding, honing or reaming is applied to the cylinders.

"Every cylinder block bored by the Rotter boring bar means a booster for your shop, as the accuracy of this tool permits you to fit your work so closely that it equals or exceeds the condition of the motor as it came from the factory."

Big Machinery Company Adds Two Splendid New Lines

This should be a record-breaking year all around, stated Mr. Woodruff, president of the Woodruff Machinery company, of 92-94 South Forsyth street, to a representative of this department Saturday morning.

Mr. Woodruff is a good barometer insofar as farm and saw mill work is concerned, and the farmers are now working harder and more steady than they have in years and when the farmer is on the job, his money is in the spring then there is good time all down the line for the rest of us later in the year.

Business, however, has been exceptionally good with this year and we have taken on some new lines that are extra good and will be a big factor in increasing the profits for the year.

farmers and dairymen when they get to using more of them.

The first of these is the Woodruff, in the regular speed, the second is the new Thomas double speed mower.

The new Thomas mower is the only mower made with two-speed transmission. In the regular speed, the knife is driven forty-four movements by one turn of the ground wheels, in the high-speed it is driven fifty-four movements. An ordinary cutting can be done in the regular speed, but an unusually heavy piece of grass is encountered, the high speed enables the mower to cut it without difficulty. If the dirt is too hard, the high speed enables the mower to continue when an ordinary mower would choke down.

In order to acquire every live, progressive farmer or dairyman with the splendid advantages of these new lines we are prepared to send some very handsome literature to anyone interested and as this is the very season of the year when they can be used to good advantage we advise that no time be lost in the matter.

Kimball House Has Sheltered Many Notables; Great Events

No history of Atlanta, Georgia or the south would be complete if the name of the Kimball house were not to be found in bold type upon many pages, for within this famous hostelry many important events and meetings were held that bore fruit and helped give us a greater city, a prosperous state and a growing southland.

The first Kimball house was built in 1870 and the proprietor, H. I. Kimball, who was a man of great vision and foresight, saw a great future for the whole south if the people could be made to realize the many advantages that they possessed in climate, soils and nature's vast store houses in the rivers and hills close by.

It was in this old Kimball house that Mr. Kimball conceived and with his associates planned the cotton exposition of 1881 that was held on the site of the present Exposition Cotton Mills, and the main fair building at that exposition is the main unit of the present mills and the wheels that started in operation at this big cotton exposition which was planned in the old Kimball house, and nobody has ever heard of the wheels of the Exposition Mills stopping from that time up until now, and from present time on the Exposition Mills will be built as part of a world's exposition from which they got their name, will be going for many years to come.

Kimball's dream of the cotton exposition of the cotton exposition and who was director general for the same, in conference with his associates, planned the day was set and the machinery, the first in the south, was installed in the main exposition building, and when the day dawned visitors from all parts of the country were at the fair grounds and they saw the cotton picked in early morning, timed and then spun and woven for the first time in the south by machinery.

As that day was also Governor's day, the newly-woven cloth was turned over to some expert tailors on the ground and Governor Colquhoun, who had taken a keen interest in the exposition, came home in a new suit of clothes that day from cotton that was picked in the morning and the first to be made here into cloth by machinery.

From that one event alone more than 200 cotton mills sprung up all over the south in the next fifteen years, and many more after that time were inspired by the success the first 200 had made, and the entire south today owes the supremacy it has attained in the textile world to a movement planned in the old Kimball house.

When the old Kimball house burned, the owner, Mr. Kimball, was undaunted and in 1883 the present Kimball house was built and for many years was the ranking hotel of this part of the country. Space nor time will permit doing justice to the thousand and one big social functions, conventions and political meetings that have been held in this big hotel, but to tell a friend to meet you at the Kimball house needs no further talk as to location, for everybody everywhere knows the Kimball house is in the very center of Atlanta, and this splendid hotel is as popular today as it ever was and its hospitable roof shelters many notable people.

The present proprietors are Ed. G. Jacobs and E. W. Maynard, of Macon, popular hotel men of the Central City, and W. E. Lamkin, a hotel man of many years' experience, is the resident manager. Mr. Lamkin announces that the Kimball house has a very attractive rate they are now offering to regular guests, and have some very desirable rooms that are quiet and have that comfortable, homelike atmosphere that all the conveniences of a modern hotel centrally located in a big city. Mr. Lamkin states he will take pleasure in personally showing Atlanta people or summer visitors what advantages they can have for little money in this big hotel.

Weekly Business Review

New Erlanger Theater To Add Much to Atlanta's Fame

Atlanta has its grand opera and Cracker and now it is to have its own legitimate theater.

In the erection of the Erlanger theater, 509 Peachtree street, which was planned and designed by Raymond C. Snow & Co., architects, Atlanta will acknowledge with intense pride, the home of one of the most modern and beautifully appointed playhouses in the south and will also gain the wide experience Mr. Snow has had in the designing of theaters, having been associated with many such projects in the east.

Mr. Erlanger is taking great interest in the Atlanta project and is cooperating with Mr. Snow in the selection of equipment and appointments for the new theater. Mr. Wincoff, one of Atlanta's most prominent civic leaders, has most cordially indicated his pride and faith in Atlanta and its future by the building of this playhouse and leasing to the Erlanger interests, New York city.

The new Erlanger theater will have a seating capacity of 2,000, and provision has been made for lounge and smoking rooms and many other features not found in any other local theater. The Erlanger will be a legitimate theater and Manager Haase has made several recent trips to New York, making arrangements for the booking of some very fine attractions for the coming season.

Progress of the theater is being pushed by the architects, Raymond C. Snow & Co., and the steel work on the mammoth job will be completed in the next fortnight. It is the intention of the owner to erect a nine-story office building on the Peachtree frontage and the main entrance lobby of the theater will be in this section of the building.

Amusements

Rialto Theater.

Harold Lloyd's "The Freshman" will be given an elaborate presentation as the feature of the Rialto theater's program opening today. The picture is a comedy of the Georgia Tech club, and the quartet of football stars from the same organization, headed by Ike Williams, will appear in a prologue, with a setting appropriate to the greatest and funniest football picture ever made.

In the supplementary picture program will be "The Adventure of M. Z." called "A Sainted Time," the fourth lesson in the series on the Charleston, with Arthur Murray.

Loew's Grand.

The veteran comedian James Morton and the famous Morton family will come to Loew's Grand today as the headline attraction on a vaudeville bill which promises to be one of the greatest of the year. Besides James Morton's fun making there will be the singing and dancing of Mamie, Edna and Alfred Morton. Another road act on the new bill is that of Will Higley and his sidekick Charleston girls. Browning and Bracken will bring a clever comedy skit while Betty Taylor and Louise Lake will sing a program of harmony songs.

Tudor Theater.

In these days of artificialities and make-believe it is a relief to find a theatergoer may be quite certain that scenes passing before him on the motion picture screen are actually those set down by nature, and not cleverly contrived by the genius of the property man.

But in the case of "The Mine With the Iron Door," a Sol Lesser production of Harold Bell Wright's new and popular novel produced for Principal Pictures corporation, and scheduled as the chief feature at the Howard theater.

Howard Theater.

In "That's My Baby," his latest hilarious starring vehicle, Douglas MacLean returns to the rollicking, swift-rolling type of situation comedy typified by such past successes as "Going Up" and "Introduce Me."

Unlike many of the other current farces, "That's My Baby" has the novelty of a series of situations that are refreshingly new. The irrepressible MacLean plays the role of an infatuated young man.

"The Bughouse Cabaret," John Murray Anderson's daffy diversion, is the public theater's stage presentation for this week. The scene is this "nutty" revue is an elaborate padded cell in which a distinguished cast of performers disport and which is extraordinarily comical.

West End.

"Sally, Irene and Mary" will be the screen attraction at the West End theater today and tomorrow. "Sally, Irene and Mary" is the story of three chorus girls, Constance Bennett, Jean Crawford and Sally O'Neill.

Here the little Irish girl, Mary O'Brien lives in the tenement district of New York. She is beautiful and goes on the stage where she meets all types of men, including Sally and Irene. These three are soon drawn together by some invisible bond and their reactions to certain given situations form the very interesting tale of "Sally, Irene and Mary."

Countryman—If you don't look out you'll get run over! You're standing right in the middle of the road.

Maude—Mr. Creude is considered a live wire.

Grace—That probably accounts for his shocking manners.

Fadometer Measures Durability Of Car's Upholstery and Finish

The fadometer used by the Studebaker Corporation in testing the weathering qualities of lacquer, paint, top materials and upholstery fabrics.

Made to order weather produced at will in a chamber no larger than an apple barrel, the Studebaker engineers whether or not an automobile body will "stand up" in actual use. It takes only four days in a laboratory to measure the "weathering" of motor car finish for four months' use outdoors.

The barrel like device which enables the company to check up on the effect on raw material of different weather conditions was designed by Studebaker engineers.

Within this testing device, a steady downpour of rain is made to take place in one section for three hours for the next five hours, a warm, moist summer night is duplicated. For the remaining sixteen hours of the day, sunlight much more intensified than that of noon at midsummer is maintained.

The barrel shape revolves once in 24 hours. During this time it carries samples of lacquer, paint, top materials or upholstery fabrics through this series of artificial weather.

The sunlight is produced by a fadometer violet carbon arc lamp which produces a light nearly identical with the chief feature at the Howard theater.

Oddly enough, the light rays which destroy coloring and disintegrate in fabrics or the substance of top materials are those not visible to the naked eye—the ultra-violet and infrared rays which have, respectively, chemical and heating properties. The lamp in this machine creates a larger proportion of these rays.

Scientists have discovered that June-July sunlight is six times as destructive as is the light of December. Also, that even in midsummer, six hours out of the twenty-four supply the greatest light intensity, while in winter, less than four hours supply light of any appreciable intensity.

While only a few hours on bright days submit a driver's car to destructive sunlight, this "weather machine," by maintaining maximum destructive effect during the entire day, breaks down defective colors or defective materials in a short time.

By passing all colors and top materials through this machine, Studebaker is able to keep out of its cars either colors or materials which will not successfully withstand ravages of the elements. By means of special baking ovens and refrigerators, the effect of tropical, midsummer heat and arctic cold likewise is determined in advance.

The laboratory worker, watching this machine, stands as a sentinel, keeping out of Studebaker cars colors or fabrics which will not withstand the rigors of weather when put into service.

ALLIES PRESENT NEW ULTIMATUM JURY CONTINUES PEN CAMP PROBE

BY LORIMER HAMMOND.

The Chicago Tribune, Oujda, May 2.—The French and Spanish armies will resume the "liberty of action" the morning of May 7, if Abd-el-Krim's answer is flatly unfavorable.

This was the information carried by Sidi Mohammed Azekane and Caid Haddou. They are en route to the coast town of Nemours where they will take a French destroyer, to some point on the Riff coast where they will deliver it to their chief.

The return of all prisoners held in the Riff by May 6 is the dynamite in its demand was dictated by the Spanish and there is small likelihood of Krim agreeing to return the able-bodied prisoners, since the Riffs consider them only a guarantee against gas bomb air raids on their towns.

Haddou told The Tribune Press Service that no army ever before had been asked to give up all its prisoners as a peace condition.

The tone-bearers are due to return May 6. The correspondent is informed by an unquestionable private source in the closest touch with all the Moroccan affairs that General Primo de Rivera has let it be known during this conference that he does not believe this in the time to try to make peace with the Riffs. He wants the Spanish army to try to occupy Targuist by force of arms before starting the negotiations for peace.

To a limited extent the French military group, centered by the general staff of the colonial army are on the side of the Spanish. But Commissioner General Steeg wants peace. His right hand man in the present peace effort, General Moguin, made a lightning trip from Fez Friday for a conference with Caid Haddou and Azekane which lasted until morning when he left again for Fez to report to Commissioner Steeg. He is Commissioner Steeg's aide, Abd-el-Krim in the middle.

Delegates Exhausted.

August Ponsot, the French delegate, and Azekane are both so tired that they are unable to work over work and lack of sleep. I spoke to Azekane at his house before he went away. His hand was shaking so he hardly was able to hold the glass of Moroccan tea he offered me. Both he and Caid Haddou assured me they are going to Targuist to do everything in their power to avert war. They accepted all the basic conditions of the peace in principle, except the exile of Krim, they say. What his own view will be, they do not venture to give an idea. As the leader of the Riffian people, Krim seeks peace, undoubtedly, but he also is influenced to a certain extent—where the Spanish are concerned—by personal hatred.

METHODIST HEADS MEET IN MEMPHIS

Memphis, Tenn., May 2.—(AP)—With two important board meetings the preliminary work of the 20th quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, will be well under way tomorrow. The general conference will convene Wednesday for a 21-day session.

Expansion will be the keynote of the general board of lay activities, of which W. Erskine Williams, of Fort Worth, Texas, is president. Leaders declared today that memorials to the general conference calling for legislative enactment in the interests of the laymen's work will be drafted Monday and Tuesday.

John H. Pepper, of Memphis, is honorary president of the general board of lay activities. The board has organized conference and district committees throughout the church.

The Epworth League board, representing 267,289 young people under 30 years of age, will convene Monday. The general Sunday school board will meet prior to the opening of the conference. Rev. John R. Shackford, secretary of the board, will report that the number of Sunday schools in the church last year was 15,324, with a total enrollment of 2,048,198 pupils in the United States and 66,398 in foreign fields. The board is composed of Bishops Beauchamp, Darlington and Moore.

While only a few hours on bright days submit a driver's car to destructive sunlight, this "weather machine," by maintaining maximum destructive effect during the entire day, breaks down defective colors or defective materials in a short time.

By passing all colors and top materials through this machine, Studebaker is able to keep out of its cars either colors or materials which will not successfully withstand ravages of the elements. By means of special baking ovens and refrigerators, the effect of tropical, midsummer heat and arctic cold likewise is determined in advance.

The laboratory worker, watching this machine, stands as a sentinel, keeping out of Studebaker cars colors or fabrics which will not withstand the rigors of weather when put into service.

The return of all prisoners held in the Riff by May 6 is the dynamite in its demand was dictated by the Spanish and there is small likelihood of Krim agreeing to return the able-bodied prisoners, since the Riffs consider them only a guarantee against gas bomb air raids on their towns.

Haddou told The Tribune Press Service that no army ever before had been asked to give up all its prisoners as a peace condition.

The tone-bearers are due to return May 6. The correspondent is informed by an unquestionable private source in the closest touch with all the Moroccan affairs that General Primo de Rivera has let it be known during this conference that he does not believe this in the time to try to make peace with the Riffs. He wants the Spanish army to try to occupy Targuist by force of arms before starting the negotiations for peace.

To a limited extent the French military group, centered by the general staff of the colonial army are on the side of the Spanish. But Commissioner General Steeg wants peace. His right hand man in the present peace effort, General Moguin, made a lightning trip from Fez Friday for a conference with Caid Haddou and Azekane which lasted until morning when he left again for Fez to report to Commissioner Steeg. He is Commissioner Steeg's aide, Abd-el-Krim in the middle.

Delegates Exhausted.

August Ponsot, the French delegate, and Azekane are both so tired that they are unable to work over work and lack of sleep. I spoke to Azekane at his house before he went away. His hand was shaking so he hardly was able to hold the glass of Moroccan tea he offered me. Both he and Caid Haddou assured me they are going to Targuist to do everything in their power to avert war. They accepted all the basic conditions of the peace in principle, except the exile of Krim, they say. What his own view will be, they do not venture to give an idea. As the leader of the Riffian people, Krim seeks peace, undoubtedly, but he also is influenced to a certain extent—where the Spanish are concerned—by personal hatred.

Where People You Read About Spend Their Summers—and WHY

The World's Most Superbly Cool and Sublimely Beautiful Playground.... Yet Within Every Person's Means.

Camping in the Mountains if You Want it.... The Glorious Warmth of the Great Pacific Under Cloudless Skies.... A Light Overcoat Every Night, and Never a Day's Rain to Spoil Your Fun.... That's Southern California.

Spent the morning on the mountain peaks—camp in the cool forests during June, July, August. Spend the afternoons in the gloriously opalescent Pacific; bask under a famous sun on its lazy beaches.

Fish for 500 pound bass—and get them! Test your skill against the giant tuna; the gamest, men say, of fish.

Golf all day—any day. It never rains. Play tennis in the land that developed Helen Wills and other famous stars.

Stay in a world-famed hotel—there are scores of them here. Dine at renowned cosmopolitan restaurants and dancing places, where you see famous people you've read about, any night—any time.

Or stay in a quiet hotel, a boarding place; rent a bungalow, a cottage, a mansion if you like. Anything you want is here.

Every night you wear a light overcoat or wrap. You sleep under blankets. You breathe the clearest, purest of air. You feel a different person. There are 5,000 miles of paved highways. AND, remember, never a lost day because of weather—every day clear, wonderful, glorious.

Do you wonder then that people like Carrie Jacobs-Bond, Arthur Brisbane, high-paid newspaper man in the world, Mme. Schumann-Heink, Douglas Fairbanks, Wm. Wrigley, Jr., and scores of others, who can afford the world's best, come here to play and live and work?

If you'd take a vote of Californians you would probably find that summer is their favorite season.

And if you'll check up on us you'll discover that the U. S. Weather Bureau's 50-year record of the average mean temperatures in Los Angeles (the central city of Southern California) is as follows:

50 Junes, 66 degrees; 50 Julys, 70; 50 Augusts, 71; 50 Septembers, 69.

And you'll know, when you come here, that even on the warmer days you'll be surprised to notice that you do not feel warm. That is due to regularly low humidity (dry air), another Southern California feature.

Living costs are very reasonable, and all railroads are offering extra low round trip fares from May 15th to October 31st. Any ticket agent will give you further information.

We have issued probably the most complete book on vacations ever put in print. 47 pages, illustrated, tell you all about this great playground. Don't plan to spend your summer elsewhere until you read it. Write us and we will send a copy free.

INSTALLMENT LXI.
CELIA'S DECISION.

Celia seized the coffee pot and poured herself another cupful of the hot, black liquid, this time without milk or sugar. Coffee was a stimulant that didn't go to one's head—like champagne—and she needed a stimulant, she had such a strange, deadish feeling. . . .
Soon her thoughts began to rush with the speed and smoothness of the express that was whirling her every second nearer to Canada. She took out her fountain pen from the suede bag, then a sheet of paper and an envelope. As clearly as the oscillations of the train would allow, she wrote:
"Dear Padraic:
"I am very, very sorry, but we have both made a mistake, and it was all my fault."
"I cannot stay with your cousin as you wish me to. I know you mean the very best for me, but I couldn't possibly accept it. Please don't worry about me. I shall be quite safe. I have plenty of money with me. And please forgive me for my mistake."
She put this into the envelope, sealed it, and addressed it to "Padraic Moore, Esq. To be delivered at once." Then she slipped it into her coat pocket. She would leave it where he would see it, later on, when she had managed to escape. This would be easy to do some time during the night, when he was sleeping. There would surely be some important towns or stations at which the express would stop during the night. . . .
She caught her breath, leaned forward to look through the window. The speed of the train was slackening, and she saw that they were approaching a white, tree embowered little town. Some passenger must have a ticket for the place, and the haughty express was stopping against its will to let him down. Celia leaped to her feet, flung her ulster over her arm and the squirrel stole onto her shoulders, jammed on her velvet beret, and caught up her satchel. Feverishly she felt for the note that she had written Padraic and tossed it on to the table, then, jerking open the drawing room door, ran along the narrow passage outside it to the platform.

"Want a conveyance, lady?" There's one here—
She had been right in her guess. A passenger was being hustled from the train by the Pullman conductor.
"Lively, lively . . ." he was urging. "This ain't no local . . ."
Celia tumbled after. The conductor caught her with one hand, and her satchel with the other; threw rather than handed it to her again, and was already waving the proud train to proceed. It did so gently, gliding, almost imperceptibly—then gathered speed. Its tail light became a tiny red star in the distance; then vanished; only a low, humming roar told where that splendid violence still cleft the night.
On the now invisible train Padraic was at that moment sipping his Scotch and White Rock, and congratulating himself that he had broken to Celia his plans about her and Molly.
Celia stood in a species of trance watching the pale dusk into which the express had vanished. She was roused by the voice of the station master at her car.
"Want a conveyance, lady? There's one here—"
Celia said "Thank you," and stood irresolute, trying to think what she had best do.
"Will I call him for you? He'll drive off if I don't," urged the man. "Thank you," again said Celia, who had thought out at least part of what she would do, "but I shan't need a taxi—My—"
The station master interrupted with a laugh, that was half shame faced.
"We haven't rose above jitneys yet in this place," said he, "and the jitney's gone. There's only Josh Biggs and his old carryall out there now—"
"I was going to say," went on Celia, "that my friends live in this town—I'll walk there."
She had seen in the dim moonlight, beyond the station, a wide, elm lined street, bordered with white houses, and she wanted to walk along it to some quiet garden in which she might rest under cover of the night and rearrange her confused ideas.
The man looked at her rather inquisitively.
"Well," said he, "you know best what you want, but I guess you wouldn't be sorry for taking a hack—"
"Why? Isn't this a quiet part of the town?" asked Celia.
It was as he had surmised. This queer looking but ladylike person was a stranger.
"O, the whole town's quiet enough 's far as that goes," he replied, "but the high class residential quarter's a good ways off."
"How far?" asked Celia.
"Something like a mile, I guess. Know where your friends live?"
"Not exactly," said Celia.
They heard the various rattlings of an ancient vehicle as it moved off.
"There goes Josh," said the station master. "You'll have to foot it now, miss. Your suitcase heavy?"
"Not very," said Celia.
She began walking towards the exit from the station grounds. He kept pace with her.
"I can get a boy to carry it for you if you want," he suggested.
"Thank you," said Celia, "but I can carry it very well, myself."
"Near," thought the station master. He looked at her more inquisitively than ever, for she had stopped again, and seemed to be making up her mind about something. He waited patiently because his curiosity was increasing every second.
"When is the next train that stops here due?"
"The train for Noo York?"
"Any train?"
"The next train for Noo York's due at 10:30 this evening and the next train for Boston ain't due till 11:45 a. m. tomorrow."
Celia looked at her wrist watch. It pointed to a quarter past eight.
"Is my watch right?" she asked.
The station master glanced at it, then at his own.
"Twelve minutes fast," said he.
She remembered that Monsieur Louis had told her it was twelve minutes fast.
They had come now to the exit. Not all the street lamps were lighted, he explained, because there was a moon.
"We're some old fashioned here," he told her. "And some economical."
"It seems to be a very pretty place," said Celia. "I love those double rows of elms. It will be quite safe for me to walk alone, I suppose."
"Sure," said he. "There ain't no roughnecks round this quarter. . . . Quieter than a church and nigh as proper. Say," he added, for her commendation of the little town had pleased him and he might satisfy his curiosity and his friendly impulse at the same time, "if you wouldn't mind telling me who you're going to visit with, I could tell you exactly how far you'll have to walk."
"The Smiths," replied Celia, resuming her course of falsehood with prompt ease.

GEORGE WASHINGTON WAS UNANIMOUSLY ELECTED TO SERVE A SECOND TERM AS PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

THE FRENCH REPUBLIC HAD DECLARED WAR ON ENGLAND AND NOW EXPECTED US TO HELP THEM AS THEY HAD HELPED US DURING OUR REVOLUTION.

WASHINGTON, HOWEVER, KNEW THAT IT WOULD BE DISASTROUS TO PLACED NEW MILITARY AND ANOTHER WAR WITH ENGLAND. AND, AFTER CONSULTING THE CABINET, SIGNED THE FAMOUS PROCLAMATION OF NEUTRALITY. (1793).

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, May 2.—The brief summary of this week's important news developments from Wall street's viewpoint would almost fill this column. To mention only the highest of the high spots the list would include a further easing of money, the very favorable General Motors and Steel Corporation March quarter earnings together with many very favorable March railway earnings statements, the placing of steel common on a regular 7 per cent dividend basis, the freight car loadings' statements for the week ending April 17 showing a gain of 25,000 cars over the previous week and an increase of 260,000 from the beginning of the year compared with last year, reports from reliable quarters that the building industry was holding up better than expected, progress in the war debt refunding, a drop in unemployment in England below the million mark for the first time since 1920, the upward trend in stock prices.

Waycross Man Slain by Bandit

Waycross, Ga., May 2.—(P)—Will Tullis, Waycross truck driver, was found today with his skull crushed. He died after being taken to a hospital.

Sheriff L. C. Warren found Tullis lying on his back, his head resting on the sidewalk in the rear of a small house at the corner of Oak and Tenth streets, after the officer had been called to the scene by a taxi driver. Injuries to the head indicated that the dead man had hit with heavy weapon.

"I was called at 4 o'clock this morning and when I reached the scene Tullis was in a critical condition," the sheriff said. "It is my opinion that he met foul play and that the motive of the slaying was robbery."

It is understood that Tullis' family was visiting in Manor, Ga., and that he was on his way home when he met with the fatal encounter. He was an employee of the Hiers Planing mill and lived at 885 Kiers street.

He was attacked a short distance from his home. The theory is that he had his week's salary in his possession when robbers waylaid him.

Sheriff Warren said that several small coins, amounting to 61 cents, were picked up near the body and that one of the man's trouser pockets bulging out of place, indicating that the contents of the pocket had been lifted hurriedly. The sheriff stated his office was working on what he regarded as valuable clues.

He is confident that he will find the guilty parties as he has picked up several striking bits of information that lead in one direction. The officer said the contents of the pocket had been seen running from the scene shortly after the assault was believed to have been made.

Sims, Beveridge And Beard to Get Roosevelt Medal

New York, May 2.—(P)—The Roosevelt medals for distinguished service this year will be awarded to Rear Admiral William S. Sims, retired, former Senator Albert J. Beveridge and Daniel C. Beard, honorary vice president of the Boy Scouts of America.

Admiral Sims receives the medal for service in behalf of national defense, Senator Beveridge for his biography of John Marshall, "an eminent contribution to literature in the field of biography," and Mr. Beard, who is national scout commissioner, is honored for his efforts toward "the leadership of youth and development of American character."

The Roosevelt awards are given annually in three out of ten fields of public service.

Psychology Tests Not Infallible, Says Professor

New York, May 2.—(P)—Psychological tests for determining the intelligence are no more infallible than old-fashioned "written examinations," and a low score is no intellectual defect-warrant, Carl C. Brigham, associate professor of psychology at Princeton, said in a report issued today embodying the result of a six-year research at Cooper Union.

"We find the tests of the greatest use in locating talent," says Professor Brigham. "We do not find that they are negatively significant—that low scores necessarily mean dullness or incompetence. Unless a low score in the test is corroborated by other evidence, it is very unsafe to attach any weight to a single failure."

The tests from which Professor Brigham drew his conclusion were conducted chiefly among the students in the engineering and architectural drawing schools of the union.

DESCRIPTION

The state of Georgia owns the Western & Atlantic Railroad and has leased it to the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway.

These Certificates are issued by the Governor of the State of Georgia and the State of Georgia has set aside as a special fund for their payment certain rentals accruing to the State from this lease of the Western & Atlantic Railroad. This Railroad consists of 136.8 miles of main line, connecting Atlanta, Georgia, with Chattanooga, Tennessee, and valuable terminals located in the business centers of these two cities. Since December 27, 1890, it has been operated by the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway, as Lessee, under two leases, the first of which expired December 27, 1919, and was succeeded by the present lease for a term of fifty years from December 27, 1919, at an annual rental of $540,000.00, payable in monthly installments of $45,000.00 on the first day of each month. Of the rentals between the State and Lessee the State's Commission on the Western & Atlantic Railroad reported: "During its period its relations with the State as Lessor have been without friction or unpleasantness or dispute. It has never been a day late in making rental payments according to contract."

The Western & Atlantic Railroad is valued by the Interstate Commerce Commission at $16,616,321.00, and its net earnings for 1925 were $963,918.67. According to the reports made by the various railroads to the Georgia Public Service Commission for the year 1925 the net earnings per mile of the Western & Atlantic Railroad were the largest of any railroad in the State of Georgia. It serves as the main line to connect the Louisville & Nashville lines North and West of Chattanooga with the lines of the Atlantic Coast Line South and East of Atlanta.

The State of Georgia has set aside the rentals of $45,000.00 per month for ninety-six (96) consecutive months, commencing January 1, 1926, as a special fund to pay these Certificates, and has drawn its warrants against this special fund and deposited them with The Citizens and Southern Bank as Trustee to insure the payment of the Certificates which themselves represent actual ownership in said Warrants and rentals.

LEGALITY APPROVED BY MESSRS. REED, DOUGHERTY & HOYT, NEW YORK, N. Y., AND MESSRS. ALSTON, ALSTON, FOSTER & MOISE, ATLANTA, GEORGIA.
